

Pressemeldung zur ISE2010

Erlangen January 2010

At the ISE 2010 UNICOL will be launching its latest products composing of a new video wall and a Titan® trolley for flat screens up to 108 inch. We are looking forward to welcoming all our existing and new customers who of course can simply come along and join us at the show.

Throughout 2009 UNICOL has not only been able to meet the ongoing demands for its products but has also developed the product range for all UK, European and other international customers. Some examples of the ways we have been continuing to support our customers can be seen in the development and production of the custom made products for Deutsche Telekom and the custom designed mount for NEC which fits all of their 32 - 70 inch displays. These mounts have various functions that not only enable the mounting in both landscape and portrait mode but also offer the installer to select a range of depths from the wall. In co-operation with Europe's leading flat screen manufactures UNICOL has developed what is considered the world's slimmest mount at only 7.5 mm.

Following successful market growth in 2009 UNICOL will again be investing on the expansion of its customer support team in Germany.

Our vision for 2010 is to penetrate AV Industry and continue our wave of success in winning market share across Europe. At the ISE2010 we will introduce not only a series of new products, but we will be welcoming a series of selected partners to whom we have been very closely working with in developing solutions for the Digital Signage market.
